Pyotr Ilyich Tchaikovsky's ballet "The Sleeping Beauty," specifically the "Garland Waltz," which provides a rich classical foundation for the song. The lyrics were written by Jack Lawrence and Sammy Fain, adding a lyrical romanticism to the musical theme. The song is performed by Princess Aurora and Prince Phillip in the film, serving as a pivotal moment that symbolizes love and destiny. Over the years, the melody has been arranged and transcribed into various sheet music forms, making it accessible to musicians across diverse genres.

Origin in Disney's Sleeping Beauty
