Understanding Your Dietary Needs Post-Surgery

After weight loss surgery, your stomach capacity is significantly reduced, which means you need to be more selective about what you eat. Your body will require a balanced intake of proteins, healthy fats, and carbohydrates, while also ensuring that you get essential vitamins and minerals. Here are some key components to consider:

Protein-Rich Foods

Protein is crucial for healing and maintaining muscle mass. Aim for high-quality protein sources, including:

- Lean meats (chicken, turkey, and fish)
- Eggs and egg whites
- Low-fat dairy products (Greek yogurt, cottage cheese)
- Plant-based proteins (tofu, lentils, chickpeas)

Healthy Fats

Incorporating healthy fats helps in nutrient absorption. Some good options include:

- Avocado
- Nuts and seeds
- Olive oil and other healthy oils

Complex Carbohydrates

While carbs are important, focus on complex carbohydrates that provide fiber and nutrients:

- Whole grains (quinoa, brown rice, oats)
- Fruits and vegetables (aim for a variety of colors)
